Seasoning development is an endless process where each and every seasoning is processed with different methods and formulations. The heart of the seasoning is its taste and recipe, which makes the seasoning mouthwatering and Miss Me makes its possible through its continuous research. Under the roof of Miss Me, we always try to give new taste and flavors to Indian market with International sense.

Our R & D

We might know that, the new product design and development is more often a crucial factor in the survival of a company. Even in the fast moving era, one must revise their design and range of products to cope up with changing taste of customers. Without a continuous research and development program, a company must rely on strategic alliances, acquisitions and local networks to take footstep into other's innovations. Our main asset is our well experienced and qualified R & D team, which always focus on the development of new recipe and ageless flavors to serve the industry better. Our main motto is to give an authentic taste to Traditional Indian Cuisine.
